

Heavy Maintenance Group / ATMR

Heavy Maintenance Group Pty Ltd (HMG) and ATMR Pty Ltd (ATMR) are pleased to announce that ATMR has joined the Heavy Maintenance Group. On a merged basis the group will have revenue in excess of $100 million, making it a significant player in the heavy engineering and maintenance sector.

The union will provide customers with a wide range of heavy equipment engineering, maintenance and repair services nationally and will further strengthen HMG's position in the mining sector. The addition of ATMR will diversify the Heavy Maintenance Group by adding further strength in new geographies such as Sydney and Melbourne and industry sectors such as power generation and distribution.

Malcolm White, ATMR Director, said that "we are keen to expand ATMR's business into locations in northern Queensland, such as Mackay and Mt Isa, where HMG already has a strong presence."

Malcolm White will remain on the ATMR Board and will be joined by Mark Rainbird, Managing Director of HMG. John Bromfield, CFO of HMG, has been appointed Company Secretary. In order to further strengthen links between the group's business units Malcolm White has also been appointed to the main HMG Board.

As part of the expanded group Malcolm will continue to work at ATMR in the capacity of Commercial Manager, and Chris Gavan will continue in his role as General Manager – Sales and Marketing. Mark Rainbird will assume the role of ATMR Acting CEO.

Mark Rainbird said "I look forward to capitalising on the significant synergies of the expanded group and working with the ATMR team".
